

Who's Where

WHITE HOUSE CLOUT is measured not by how big an office is, but by how close it is to the Oval Office—except that Laura Bush's office is in the East Wing, on the opposite side of the residence from her husband's. The West Wing was built in 1902 under President Theodore Roosevelt, with President William Howard Taft choosing an oval shape for his office in 1909. The East Wing was added in 1942.

Here's a map of the bigwigs.
