

Senate Democrats on Offense

■ Democrats will defend 12 Senate seats to the Republicans' 21 in 2008, leaving more resources for the party's attempts to build on its 2006 gains. Among the most attractive targets are Republican seats in states also represented by a Senate Democrat, including Colorado, which has trended Democratic over the last two election cycles.

