

Structurally Deficient Bridges

■ The 50 most heavily trafficked, structurally deficient highway bridges in the country are concentrated in California, with 41 in metro Los Angeles. Another seven are in the Bay area. The remaining two are in Chicago and Puerto Rico. California officials told the Associated Press none of Los Angeles' bridges are in imminent danger of collapsing, as the I-35W bridge in Minneapolis did Wednesday.

