

Reaching Washington's High Story Standards

Stories are powerful tools for earning attention, being memorable, and building rapport. But not every story is a good story for Washington. The best stories in Washington are also tailored for their audience, usually an individual, and connect with your purpose – to drive policy initiatives forward.

