

Some races still uncalled two days following the election

Uncalled Presidential, Senate and House races as of November 10

Presidential	Expected Winner, Party (Margin)	Overview
Arizona	Donald Trump, Republican (+4.3)	There are over 600,000 votes still to be processed statewide.
Michigan	Donald Trump, Republican (+0.3)	Absentee ballots are still being counted.
New Hampshire	Hillary Clinton, Democrat (+0.2)	Absentee ballots are still being counted.
House District	Expected Winner, Party (Margin)	Overview
California-7	Ami Bera, Democrat (+1.2)	Ballots are still being counted, a winner might not be called for several days.
California-49	Darrell Issa, Republican (+2.2)	Ballots are still being counted, a winner might not be called for several days.
Louisiana-3	Unknown	Louisiana’s elections use a jungle primary system where the top two vote-getters qualify for a special election if no candidate gets a majority. Scott Agnelle (R) and Clay Higgins (R) will participate in a runoff on Dec. 9.
Louisiana-4	Unknown	Louisiana’s elections use a jungle primary system where the top two vote-getters qualify for a special election if no candidate gets a majority. Marshall Jones (D) and Mike Johnson (R) will participate in a runoff on Dec. 9.
Senate Race	Expected Winner, Party (Margin)	Overview
Louisiana	Unknown	Louisiana’s elections use a jungle primary system where the top two vote-getters qualify for a special election if no candidate gets a majority. John Kennedy (R) and Foster Campbell (D) will participate in a runoff on Dec. 9.

Source: AZ Central, “Still counting ballots,” November 10, 2016; Emily Cahn, “10 uncalled races remain as Democrats pick up California seat (updated),” Roll Call, November 7, 2016.