

CBO estimates that by 2026, 22 million fewer people will have health insurance than under current law

Projected number of uninsured people below age 65 under current law and BCRA

People, in millions

Analysis

- These estimates are based on CBO’s June 2017 scoring of the BCRA
- In 2017, the elimination of the individual mandate would result in about 2 million additional people becoming uninsured
- In 2018, about 14 million more people would be uninsured, relative to the number under current law
- In 2026, 49 million individuals would be uninsured

Source: National Journal Research 2017; Congressional Budget Office.