

New Hampshire's 2018 gubernatorial election

Details on candidates running for governor in New Hampshire

October 25, 2017

Producer

Owen Minott

Director

Alistair Taylor

Overview of the 2018 New Hampshire gubernatorial election

Republican primary election:

September 11, 2018

General election:

November 6, 2018

New Hampshire has no lieutenant governor

Chris Sununu (R)

- Republican
- Current New Hampshire governor
- Originally elected in 2016
- Has not declared whether he will seek reelection

The Cook Political Report:

Lean Republican

rating for New Hampshire's election

Steve Marchand has announced his attention to run for governor

Steve Marchand (D)

- Currently: Principal, SRM Consulting
- Previously: Mayor of Portsmouth
- Announced candidacy in April 2017

Key policy issues

Promises to combat the opioid epidemic by educating young students about opioids' harmful effects

Supports legalizing marijuana to generate revenue in the state

Supports non-discrimination and public accommodations for transgender people

Jilletta Jarvis is running as an independent candidate

Jilletta Jarvis (I)

- Currently: Compliance training product manager
- Previously: Adjunct professor, New Hampshire Community Technical College
- Announced candidacy in March 2017

Key policy issues

Supports tax incentives to keep companies in the state

Supports regulated casinos to add revenue and jobs to the economy

Supports decriminalization of all drug use (but not drug sales)